Ugh, you cut yourself while making breakfast, and today's going to be a busy day. Since you don't want anyone to notice the cut, will you be able to find a band aid that matches your skin color?

OUR COFFEE STORY
At McDonald's we're about more than just bringing you great coffee today. It's also about ensuring that every day you can reach for that favorite cup and know that it's made in an environmentally friendly and sustainable manner. Our commitment is in every cup.

WHERE WE GROW.
As part of our global commitment to sustainability, we took a look at how we can improve our coffee sustainability and at the same time empower local farmers throughout Central America where our coffee beans are grown. Millions of farmers depend on coffee for their livelihood and our assistance programs help train farmers how to produce sustainable coffee. Providing technical assistance and education helps farmers produce better beans yielding a better price and a more consistent bean when it comes time to sell. This contributes to family incomes, local economies and proper land maintenance ensuring coffee's future in the region. Our Arabica bean coffee comes from companies such as Columbia, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Brazil and Sumatra.

WATCH THE STORY.

MEET THE PEOPLE.
McDonald's helps farmers in Central America develop sustainable farming practices by investing $6.5 million over four-and-a-half years and partnering with international non-profits, providing technical assistance and education. This program will assist 13,000 coffee farmers in Guatemala and expand capacity for greater sustainable coffee in the future. Meet a few of the coffee farmers who are making a difference today.

EXPLORE SUSTAINABILITY
Coffee is just one way that McDonald's is committed to sustainability. We strive to be better tomorrow than we are today. We focus on five key areas: Nutrition & Good Choices, Sustainable Sourcing, Chain Environmental Responsibility, Employee Experience and Community. See what a difference we're making now for a more sustainable future.
